NOTES FROM THE PRESIDENT

Kære venner,

It is an honor to write to you for the first time as President of the Board of Directors of the Danish American Center. I am grateful for the trust. As the son of a mother from Denmark and a father from Minnesota, I have lived the Danish/American life.

Whether you come for a class, a holiday gathering, or simply good coffee and conversation, you are the heart of this community, and I am grateful to serve it. I look forward to building on the work of those who came before me.

I want to use this first message to talk about something less glamorous than, say, our Julefrokost, but just as important: how we are funded.

As a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, the DAC is a public charity. That status makes gifts tax-deductible and exempts us from federal income tax and sales tax. In return, the IRS expects us to show that we are supported broadly by the community, not by a small circle of insiders or by fees alone. Each year we demonstrate this through what is called the "Public Support Test." It is not a technicality. It is how we protect the status that makes our work possible.

Your membership dues matter enormously. They are our steady foundation. And those count towards satisfying that public support test. Our room and building rentals provide a good and steady stream of income. That income, however, does not count toward that test. Donations, meaning gifts made freely with nothing received in return, help demonstrate the broad support the IRS looks for. They also fund what dues alone cannot: building upkeep, programming, and the preservation of our traditions for the next generation.

So I ask each of you to consider a gift beyond your dues this year. Participation matters more than size. Two hundred households giving $25 each shows a wider base of support than one large check ever could. Gifts are tax-deductible as allowed by law, and you will receive an acknowledgment for your records. Many companies also match charitable gifts, which can double your impact. It is worth checking to see if your employers do.

You may give online at www.danishamericancenter.org/support-dac/, by check during our Wednesday office hours, or by mail to 3030 West River Parkway, Minneapolis, MN 55406.

Tusind tak for your generosity, and for being part of this wonderful community.

Med venlig hilsen.

EJ Gurley

ARCHIVING CONTINUES AT DAC

MRS. IVER JORGENSEN WITH HER FAVORITE DANISH SANDWICHES

So many items, so little time! Despite this fact, archiving our documents and art objects continues on a steady basis. We invite you to check out the website, MN Collections, part of the Minnesota Alliance of Local History Museums. https://mncollections.org/

Click the box that says you are not a robot, continue and then scroll to "Danish American Center". There are 237 photos, objects and documents to view on this site so far.

A recent entry features our friend Lis Jorgensen in 1960, wearing her native costume in a newspaper feature called, "Smørrebrød Makes Danes Unmelancholy." I think Lis would be pleased if you could enjoy what she had to say 66 years later! Marian Juhl was also interviewed for this feature in the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune, written by Mary Hart.

MEDISTERPØLSE CLASS

Saturday, November 21: 9:30am

For many Danes, the juleaften meal is not complete without a serving of medisterpølse. Come learn to make your own from 9:30am until we're all stuffed (the casings, not us), usually by noon. The class is limited to 16, fills quickly, and is on a first-come, first-served basis.

Cooking instructions along with recipes for traditional Danish side dishes will be provided. Deadline for registering is November 12 to give the butcher sufficient time to grind the pork. As the recipes are written for 5 pounds of meat, please order increments of 5 pounds. Bring a bowl(s) large enough to hold all your raw meat and still add spices and broth and get it all mixed together without spilling over the edge. Also bring a knife for mincing onions, and your own cutting board if you don't want to share. Bringing an apron is also recommended.

Cost is $40 for members and $50 for non-members, and the price for the pork will be approximately $3.50 per pound. Spices, casings, onions and broth are provided. To register, go to https://danishamericancenter.org/public-calendar/, and click Medisterpølse Class on Nov 21. Limited to 16 registrations

DANEBO READING CIRCLE ENDS THE YEAR WITH A DANISH MYSTERY

Sunday, November 15: 1-3 pm

Danish author Jussi Adler-Olsen provides the text for the Reading Circle's November discussion: The Keeper of Lost Causes (Kvinden i Buret); 2007, 417 pages; translated into English by Lisa Hartford for publication in the UK (Mercy) in 2011; U.S. paperback edition, 2016 (New York: Dutton). This hybrid meeting will find readers gathering via Zoom and on the third floor of the DAC.

Discussion leader Diane Greve writes: "This first in a series of Danish crime novels won my heart well over a decade ago. I found the story captivating and the characters intriguing. Adler-Olsen introduces us to two of the main characters whom he develops over the series. These men are a mystery in their own right. First, we meet top-notch homicide detective Carl Mørck, after he was traumatized by a shooting that killed one colleague and left another paralyzed. He has just been assigned to head a new Copenhagen police section, Department Q, where he becomes the keeper of lost causes—or 'cases deserving special scrutiny.'

"Unbeknownst to Carl, Hafez el-Assad is hired to work with him deep in the basement of police headquarters. Assad is somewhat mysterious—known to prepare foods that offend the Danish sense of taste and smell, for example—but he has an ability to organize the cases, install computers, and push Carl into action.

"Adler-Olsen develops the characters effectively and draws the reader into the situation of a missing-and-presumed dead attractive female politician ('the woman in the cage' of the Danish title?). The author adeptly weaves the past (2002) and the present (2007) into one compelling narrative. Themes include the randomness of life and death, fate, vindictiveness and retaliation, as well as resilience and hope. The first time I read this book, I cried at the end. I had never cried before when I read a crime novel. The author had captured my heart.

"I hope to have a lively discussion. There will be spoilers in the conversation as we cannot do justice to this book without discussing the resolution at the end."

This last meeting of the year will conclude with final plans for 2027. Bookmarks should be available to attendees and then placed on the table outside the DAC Library. Watch for the list in the December DANews, too!

LEAVES FROM THE LIBRARY

by DAC Librarian Felicity Hanson

In October I ran another Book Repair 101 workshop. We had a great group of book lovers with some rather sad books! Participants were instructed in the use of various materials and methods, and we were able to successfully put damaged books back together.

In early December, I will be offering the Teeny Tiny Books/ Earrings workshop. Participants will have the option of making two tiny books or a pair of earrings and one book, as time allows. These make great gifts! Please see the calendar listing for more details and sign up information.

TEENY TINY BOOK WORKSHOP

In this workshop, you will cut out the covers* and boards for your book, make some tiny pages, and put them all together. The work does require a degree of skill, so the workshop is suitable for teens through adults.

Optional: make a pair of teeny tiny books and turn them into earrings. Sterling earring findings an additional $2.50 per pair, payable in class. Includes latex backs. NEW! Clip-on earrings available ($2.50/pair).

*After registering, please email titles for two or three books that you love to daclibrarymn@gmail.com (by Tuesday, December 1 at noon), and I will endeavor to provide tiny covers at the workshop.

give to the max

november 19, 2026

SUPPORT THE DAC ON GIVE TO THE MAX DAY, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 2026

Every November, thousands of Minnesotans unite for Give to the Max Day—our state's celebration of generosity and community support. This year, Give to the Max Day takes place on Thursday, November 19, with early giving opening November 1. As we look ahead to the close of another wonderful year along West River Parkway, we invite all members and friends to rally around the Danish American Center.

The DAC is far more than a physical landmark; it is a home away from home. Within our walls, Danish traditions flourish—whether through Wednesday lunches (Onsdagsfrokost), lively language classes, festive æbleskive breakfasts, or simply sharing hygge over fresh coffee with fellow Danes. Preserving this historic building and sustaining our cultural offerings requires continuous care, vision, and broad community investment.

And even more than the dollars raised, the number of those participating matters just as much. A gift of $25, $50 or $100 is every bit as meaningful to our mission as a larger donation. Every single contribution signals that our community values having a vibrant Danish and Nordic cultural hub in the Twin Cities.

Participating through GiveMN also gives the DAC opportunities to win additional prize grants. Every donation made during early giving and on November 19 enters us into hourly "Golden Ticket" drawings, which can boost your gift by $500 or more at no extra cost to you. Furthermore, many Minnesota employers match charitable contributions—be sure to check if your workplace will double your impact.

Visit the DAC's Give to the Max page (https://www.givemn.org/organization/Danebo) to make a gift.

DAC DECORATED FOR JUL

Beginning December 1

See trees decorated with Danish ornaments in the Atrium, Living Room, Dining Room and Office and Danish mobiles throughout the building. Christmas bells and cups and plates by Royal Copenhagen and Bing & Grondahl will fill displays throughout the first floor.

VISIT "LILLEJULEAFTEN" AS CELEBRATED IN THE 1970S - IN THE DAC HERITAGE ROOM

Beginning December 1

See a vintage Danish Christmas celebration in the DAC Heritage Room this December where the room has been decked out with all the trappings of a traditional "Lillejuleaften." In Denmark, December 23rd is popularly known as 'Lillejuleaften' or 'Little Christmas Eve'. This day, families and friends get together and relish a cup of hot gløgg or mulled wine (wine boiled with nuts, raisins and spices) and everyone enjoys æbleskiver with powdered sugar and jam. Special thanks to our exhibit partner, Danish Teak Classics, for lending us furniture again this year.

Speaking of gløgg, here's a recipe for a family-friendly alcohol-free white gløgg from the Danish magazine Isabellas.

WHITE GLØGG

1 organic orange
1 ½ L high-quality unfiltered apple juice or cider
50 g fresh ginger
4 star anise
8 cardamom pods
50 g large light-colored raisins

Method:

- Slice the orange.
- Bring the apple juice to a boil with the spices and orange slices.
- Reduce the mixture to approximately 1 L.
- Strain it over the raisins. Bring to a boil, then serve immediately.

SANGAFTEN

Sunday, December 6: 6pm in the Atrium

Join us to sing many of our favorite Danish and English Christmas songs together with friends and family. The evening will be led by Lisa Jensen on our grand piano beside our beautiful Christmas tree in the Atrium! JULEFROKOST / CHRISTMAS LUNCH

SPOTLIGHT ON DANISH TRADITIONS: MORTENSAFTEN

Photo Credit: Meyers.dk. Visit https://meyers.dk/artikler/madhaandvaerk/maden-til-den-perfekte-mortensaften for a collection of Mortensaften recipes

Every November 10, as autumn settles firmly over Denmark, many Danes gather around the table for Mortensaften (St. Martin's Eve). And like many good Danish traditions, this one comes with a story and a delicious meal.

Denmark's Mortensaften is part of a much older European tradition surrounding the feast day of Saint Martin of Tours, (Martinmas), on November 11. Martin, a fourth-century Roman soldier who later became a monk and bishop, became one of medieval Europe's most beloved saints, remembered especially for the story of cutting his cloak in half to share it with a beggar on a cold winter day. Over time, Martinmas also became closely connected with the changing seasons. Across much of Europe, it marked the end of the harvest and the beginning of winter—a time when livestock were traditionally slaughtered, new wine was ready to drink, and communities gathered for a final autumn feast. Customs developed differently from place to place: some communities lit bonfires or held lantern processions, others celebrated with food and drink. The goose became particularly associated with Martinmas through the legend that he hid in a pen of geese to avoid being made a bishop, only to have their noisy cackling reveal his hiding place. He became bishop anyway, and, as the story goes, the tattling geese earned themselves a permanent place on the dinner table in his honor.

In Denmark, where the evening before a holiday often carries much of the celebration (most famously Juleaften/Christmas Eve), it seems fitting that it is Mortensaften, rather than Saint Martin's feast day itself that has endured as the Danish tradition. Historically, roast goose was the centerpiece of the meal. Today, however, most Danish families who observe the tradition serve duck, which is smaller, easier to prepare, and better sized for a family dinner.

The classic Mortensaften dinner will look familiar to anyone who has enjoyed a traditional Danish Christmas meal. Along with the roast duck you'll find sovs and kartoffler, brunede kartoffler and rødkål (brown gravy and boiled potatoes, carmelized potatoes and red cabbage).

Mortensaften is not a public holiday, nor is it celebrated in every Danish household. It is one of those quieter traditions that has endured largely because it offers a good excuse to gather with family or friends on a dark November evening.

And perhaps that is the most Danish part of the tradition. A reluctant saint and some troublesome geese may have started the story, but good food, good company, and a delicious, comforting meal have kept it going.
